

What is the flash point of a liquid?

The flash point is the minimum temperature at which an inflammable liquid emits sufficient vapours to reach the LEL in the gaseous phase in equilibrium with the explosive atmosphere.